ENGLAND LOST MOST TONNAGE

(New York Post)

Archibald Hurd's table of shipping losses cabled from London contains nothing really new, but makes possible interesting comparisons. The total sinkings reach almost 13 1/2 million tons, of which Great Britain's share is 8,000,000. Translated into dead weight tonnage, the total loss would be roughly 21 1/2 million tons, and Great Britain's share of it about 14 1/2 million tons—this against a total merchant tonnage when the war began of 75,000,000 tons for the world. Our whole government shipbuilding program as originally outlined exceeded this British loss by no large margin.

In outright sinkings Britain has lost about a fifth of the world's tonnage, and more than eight times as much as Norway; more than eleven times as much as France or Italy; seventeen times as much as the United States, and almost forty times as much as Holland. But in computing the net deficit due to the war it is usual to include an estimate of about 15 million deadweight tons that would have been built above all losses if the war had not occurred; and Britain's share of the world's shipbuilding varied in 1911-1912 between 58 and 83 per cent. It is easy to understand why England should be troubled, why Hurd and others should urge hurried rebuilding, and why a heavy bill to Germany should be talked of.

Market News

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

NEW YORK, April 23.—Factors which contributed measurably to the strength and activity of today's stock market, notably the confident buying of rails, were operative again today, reinforced by a keen inquiry from other popular shares, particularly steels, coppers and numerous equipments.

United States Steel was the central feature at an extreme gain of 2 1/2 points to 100, though yielding all but a large fraction in the extensive profit taking of the last hour.

The rise in rails was again restricted mainly to low grade issues of the western and southwestern section.

Aside from Royal Dutch, oils were uncertain.

Tobacco, fertilizers, food specialties and a variety of miscellaneous issues forfeited much of their variable gains at slight pressure, an irregular tone prevailing at the active close. Sales amounted to 1,700,000 shares, which sets a high water mark for the year to date. Bonds including Liberty issues were firm but featureless. Total sales, par value, aggregated $11,875,000. Old United States registered 4s rose 1/4 per cent on sales.

COTTON

NEW YORK, April 23.—Cotton closed steady at a net advance of 15 to 34 points. Old style months were 25 to 50 points net higher.

RESTED IN SHADE AS WIFE, HOLDING BABY, WORKED ON DITCHES

While Henry Brown lounged under the shade of sheltering trees, his wife with a borrowed shovel, and carrying a baby in her arms, built up the walls of the ditches preparatory to securing water for irrigation of their farm, according to evidence offered in Justice De Souza's court yesterday where Brown was given his preliminary hearing on the charge of failure to provide for his wife and child.

Brown contended that it was the work for a team and not for a man, although his wife proved it was a job that a woman could do if necessary. As she dug with her neighbor's shovel, she also cared for her baby, a neighbor, J. H. Warren, said.

Mrs. Brown told the story of years of struggle for a mere existence and of the hopes of her husband and herself when they arrived in this valley from Bisbee. They rented a 12-acre ranch near Alhambra with the intention of planting it in cotton. They found their land, literally covered in Johnson grass and were advised by experts it would be a waste of effort to attempt to plant it in cotton. Mrs. Brown testified that she advised farming the land, while her husband, discouraged, went away, accepting an odd job here and there. The witness said she was left with $5 and went without shoes in order that she might use the money for payment on a cow. She declared that there were days when bread and milk furnished the only food and had it not been for the cow, that she and her child might have starved.

In the meantime Brown secured work in Miami, only to be let out in favor of men who had families to support in Miami. When he said that he, too, had a family, he was advised to get work in Maricopa county where his wife and child resided. On his return, Brown refused to work on the farm. He had been employed on the state highway a few days before his arrest and stated in court yesterday that he would support his family if they would abandon the farm.

Justice De Souza held the defendant to answer to the superior court. Bond was fixed at $500, which he failed to furnish. It was stated that Brown would be placed in the custody of the sheriff and arrangements made where by Brown should support his wife and child.

COMMISSION ORDERS MORE STREET PAVING

Civic paving enterprises occupied a considerable portion of the city commission's regular meeting yesterday. Among those acted upon and favorably was the matter of paving Tenth street in front of the new Arizona Deaconess hospital grounds at Tenth and McDowell road.

At a previous meeting of the commission, the paving of Tenth street had struck a snag in the objection of Mr. Carpenter, owner of the property affected on the west side of the street, to the paving. After Mr. Carpenter's objection, the commission decided to leave the west side of the street out of the project, and, accordingly, only the east side of the street will be paved, that abutting on the hospital grounds.

The matter of paving East Willetta street between Seventh and Twelfth streets, laid over at a previous meeting for the purpose of investigating water mains, was finally settled yesterday when the commission instructed the city engineer to prepare plans for the project.

The commission adopted without a dissenting vote ordinance No. 256, providing for the paving of Fifth street between Jefferson and Adams streets.

The commission accepted the bid of the Southwestern Contracting company for the paving of Adams street between Eighteenth and Twenty-second avenues.

The commission extended the time of payment of the second installment of city taxes to April 30, on recommendation of City Manager Thompson, arranged for the payment on a new motor car purchased by the city, and for buying a new motor truck.

A call for bids for the construction of the tile drainage system for the city was also authorized.

MILITARY BALL TO BE EVENT OF YEAR

The biggest thing in the way of a dance that Phoenix has seen this year will be the military grand ball of the Great War veterans association to be held Friday night, April 25, at Arcadia auditorium. Claude Thompson is the Vet in charge of the arrangements, and he has arranged for a gala night of pleasant surprises. The service men will appear in uniform, but it will be informal to those not in uniform.

The programs are the last word in this line, and list a masterful combination of fox trots, one-steps and waltzes. The music will be furnished by Besse's orchestra, reinforced with some jazz artists who will furnish more than the usual inspiration. Several military features will be staged during the evening that will lend a merited distinction to the event.

Tickets have been placed on sale at the Strand Tobacco shop and at Vic Hanny's. The floor will accommodate 1,000 couples, but the ticket sale has been limited to a very much smaller number in order to avoid any crowded conditions. Governor Campbell will lead the grand march, which will start at 9 o'clock sharp, immediately after the buglers have blown assembly. Taps will be blown at midnight after the last waltz of "Home, Sweet Home" has been danced.

A restriction on changes of name is imposed by a new Defense of Realm Regulation (14H), published in the London Gazette recently.

It is made an offense for any person who is not a natural born British subject to assume or use "any name other than that by which he was ordinarily known at the date of the commencement of the war."

A similar provision is made to apply to businesses. If a person carries on any trade or business in any name other than that under which the trade or business was carried on at the date of the outbreak of war he will be deemed to be using, or continuing to use, "a name other than that by which he was ordinarily known at the date of the commencement of war." The prohibition applies also to members of a partnership or firm.

A secretary of state may grant exemptions from the provisions of the regulation "if it appears desirable in any particular case," and the names may still be assumed or used by royal license. It is specifically added that the regulation is not to "prevent the assumption or use by a married woman of her husband's name."
